

Attorney Harriet M. Hageman Hosts Wyoming Water and Energy Conference

Attorney Harriet M. Hageman sponsors CLE International Wyoming Water & Energy Law event at Little America Hotel & Resort in Cheyenne.

Cheyenne, WY (PRWEB) March 02, 2017 -- Attorney Harriet M. Hageman, founder and managing partner of Hageman Law P.C., is sponsoring and hosting a CLE International Wyoming Water & Energy Law conference to educate attendees about recent developments in water and energy law in Wyoming and nationwide. The event is scheduled for March 16-17, 2017, at Little America Hotel & Resort, 2800 West Lincolnway, Cheyenne, WY.

“In light of what is going on at the national level, this is an important conference to educate people about water and energy,” said Hageman, who focuses her law practice on water and natural resources issues. “I am proud to be a part of this program and look forward to seeing old friends and meeting new attorneys involved in the energy sector.”

In addition to attorneys, engineers, developers, government employees, real estate professionals and those involved in the energy industry are invited to attend. Topics will include Endangered Species Act (ESA) rulemaking and new guidelines, the intersection of water and energy, the current state of the energy industry in Wyoming, water issues facing Nebraska and new administration views on Western water issues.

Attendees can earn up to 12 hours of CLE credit, including one hour of ethics credit, and up to 12 hours engineering credit. For more information about the CLE International Wyoming Water & Energy Law conference and to register, please visit <https://secure2.6cp.com/cle/>, or call (800) 873-7130.
